and equal rights to all,

Next March there is to be an election Next March there is to be an election for governor. Gen. Alvarado decided not to be a candidate. He feared that if he did it would look as if he were trying to make himself a permanent boss, the dictator of Yucatan, and that would be directly opposed to his ideas of democracy. Also he knew that the state was now in good running order and that he could safely hand over its management to a successor. Nothing doing. The Yucatan voters know when they are well off and they won't risk their prosperity by a change. So they have insisted to a man than Gov. Alvarado accept a re-election.

There are two political parties in Yucatan he set to work to one state in Mexico today where condithan Gov. Alvarado accept a re-election.

There are two political parties in Yucatan is the contain, the Socialists and the Constitution-alists. The Socialists have an easy control of a majority of the votes, and be it known that Gov. Alvarado is an out and out and ardent Socialist. Also he is a Constitutionalist, for did he not help form the constitutional government and sweep through Mexico with Carranza? So when these two parties held their conventions they both nominated him conventions they both nominated him unanimously. Now he can't get out of it and has to keep on being governor or offend all the people he has worked so hard to make his friends. For you see Alvarado is not a native of Yucatan. He comes from Sonora, way at the other end of the republic, where the people and the customs are entirely rent, and he came to Yucatan at the different, and he came to Yucatan at the head of a conquering army. He was about as popular as a wet dog at a picnic when he first breezed in there with his army of Yaqui Indians. It did not take them long to discover, however, that he was not a bandit nor a looting conqueror nor a wanton blood letter.

He want there to restore order and to day and He went there to restore order and t help the people. He did both. And now, outside that he is, they fairly worship him. They don't fear him, for he is neither harsh nor dictatorial. He is the most remarkable when you stop to con-sider that he can't even speak their lang-uages, which is Maya and is in universal use except in the cities where, of course Spanish is spoken.

Although he is the absolute ruler of half a million people there is no ostenta tion about it, no parade of power. Ther is not a single guard or sentinel at his house. Anybody, from the lowest peon up, can see him there or at the national palace. There is no red tape to be un-

Among the reforms promulgated and actually enforced by Gen. Alvarado within eighteen months are the laws providing for a division of the public among the poor. Commissioner of among the poor. Commissioner of Immi-gration Howe, of New York, the other day started a similar agitation in this country, whereby the vast tracts of land kept unused by the government or private corporations for speculative purposes should be cut up into ready-made farms for emigrants. Alvarado has already done it in Yucatan. Anybody there can have land for the asking to cultivate, but not

He instituted an eight-hour working day and five and a half days as a work week. Also the minimum wage for aborers and the abolition of child laoor and the regulation of female labor. Compensation for accidents in factory
